

WARRANTY INFORMATION

Should your watch require repair, please send the watch to the Invicta Service Center. While our goal is to minimize the repair time, please keep in mind that detailed inspections are conducted to ensure the quality of the repair along with the overall appearance and performance of the watch.

After the repair, your timepiece will enter a rigorous 2-week testing period during which time the function of movement will be observed and recorded daily. Once the watch passes this testing period, it will be sent to you immediately.

Should the technician designated to repair or overhaul your watch find it necessary to re-submit the watch into observation, your watch will be tested and observed for one more week.

WARRANTY INFORMATION

Experience shows that the first testing phase is sufficient for most watches. However, some watches need a little special attention. Should your watch be among those few, please understand that we are only concerned with the performance of your watch once you receive it back. We ask for both your understanding and patience in this case.

In the rare circumstance that your watch cannot be repaired due to market availability of key components, Invicta reserves the right to replace the timepiece for a model of the same or lesser value.
